

Sean Bott KEYNOTE Intro

Sean believes people don't leave companies, they leave management. Often people trudge along in jobs where they feel unseen, and where their best efforts go unrecognized. All of this despite the companies best efforts. They feel invisible. The company loses people. It's a frustrating cycle.

Our keynote speaker, Sean Bott is here to transform managers into leaders, feeling unseen into feeling understood, and how to harness the power of discretionary effort that takes your organization from "it's a job" to "I love my job." The tools Sean provides are simple, immediately applicable, and a necessary super power for companies seeking to not just recruit great people, but keep them. People stay, contribute, and thrive where they are seen. And we might as well have a few good laughs along the way!

Sean has helped bring curated content, mind blowing moments, and not a few laughs to over one thousand five hundred associations, corporations, and Universities worldwide in the past 15 years including companies like Dell, Google, and Disney. And he's excited to be here with you today!

Please join me in welcoming, Sean Bott!

Sean Bott ENTERTAINMENT Intro

Beginning his journey into the magically delicious arts at the tender age of 12 by learning improv comedy while simultaneously discovering books teaching hypnosis, psychology, and stagecraft at his local library, Sean started his journey in a direction where he has continually been on stage. Whether in front of strangers or at random Arby's restaurants, throughout the world Sean has been blowing minds, making people gasp and laugh, all while eating curly fries.

Sprinkle on some pit stops at places like Second City in Chicago for workshops to keep his funny skills on point and you're left with a one-of-a-kind mind reading comedy blend.

The LA Times describes Comedy Mentalist Sean Bott as "A Crazy Blend of Jack Black and Criss Angel, he's Amazing!" Sean has appeared on HBO, MTV, NBC, CBS, the Sy Fy channel, and in 127 Hours with James Franco.

Sean has helped bring hilarious, curated, mind blowing moments to over one thousand five hundred associations, corporations, and Universities worldwide in the past 12 years.

Sean is owned by two cats, two kids, and a spouse.

Please welcome, Sean Bott!